Terms B

As per Terms A all authorised non-labour expenses (travel, daily allowance, sales materials etc) are re-claimable afterwards through an expenses claim report. Otherwise and in the interim it falls to the Service Provider to cover any costs from his monthly $4k "bankroll" budget. This was only NOT the case for NACAS 2022, since the conference was nearly all expenses paid, less some basic travel expenses and refreshment which were pre-authorised as being re-claimable e.g. $70 general expenditure budget for food, bus, uber etc.

In Terms B these non-labour, direct expenses will instead be paid ontop of the bankroll amount. For both June's expenses unclaimed and the estimated expense claim for July. In June the unclaimed expense report is $1.5k. And for July it is estimated to be in the region of $3k, bringing the total current invoice amount to $8.5k ($4k (bankroll for July) + $1.5k (unclaimed expenses June) + $3k (forecasted expenses for July).

There is then an additional $1.25k added, which relates to several other matters. Firstly the intial NACAS Conference quote, whereby the bid was for $5k but was reduced to $2.5k since the client was assured it was too high. One argument being, the exit Visa from DR to US would only be a few hundred dollars, when it ended up being circa $1,250 USD. Secondly the Service Provider stayed behind after NACAS to be available to follow up on leads and explore and generate new opportunities. And in the week that followed NACAS, the Service Provider introduced the Client directly to his longstanding prospective certified US investors, whom has historically and recently invested millions of dollars in projects recommended by Sion's companies: DATRO Consortium (UK) and Scottish Bay LLC (US). This is also being pursued with no commission agreement in place. Also gained was an introduction to the dean of Rhode Island University and a second opportunity in Rhode Island for a state-wide deployment of the clients solution. All of which, has incurred said expenses.

Terms C

Unikle Terms A, whereby (with the exemption of the monthly "bankroll" budget) the Service Providers labour expense of $225 per hour is settled in full, largely upon a deal signing only, as part of a wider commission agreement. In Term C the actual expenses and labour from June/July are to be half paid in anticipation of six face-to-face on-campus meetings with universities, which henceforth replace the "deal signing" as the definition of commission.

Furthermore these six meetings are assumed to all occur before August 1st 2022. And since payment is made in advance, also in accordance with Terms A - this alternative term is also proposed in response to a previously completed month of working with the client and their prospective clients, whereby it was learnt that many more hours we sought after for Terms A. A demand of the clients prospective clients just as much as the client. This brought the estimated hours from 40 in June to somewhere in the region of 80+ billable hours, which may grow further throughout July 2022 now that there is traction.

While the client seeks to take care with startup capital and cashflow, the Service Provider equally must take a firm position not to overachieve or overextend, since the billable hours may not be, unless terms revisited, remunerated until many weeks into the future, when a commission is awarded that settles said ledger. The Service Provider and Client must equitably share risk and return. The 50% due and payable in this new term, does account for the $4k already paid in June and the $4k to be paid for July. So for clarification it's not 50% of labour costs + $4k (bankroll) being paid, it's only the difference between the bankroll amount agreed and the additional cost to ensure that 50% of labour has been settled beforehand. In addition to 50% of expenses, both incurred from June and forecasted for July 2022.

Terms BC (B & C)

As per Terms C, we understand the client agrees to the terms of commission for the Service Provider being altered from a "deal-signing" to "3+ face-to-face sales meetings with universities, within a 30 day period". However instead of the client awarding the Service Provider 50% of labour and expenses, as per Terms C - Term B+C actually incorporates the benefit of payment of expenses in full, as detailed in Term B. This option is recommended, since it most equitably distributes the cost of contracting the Service Provider, without handicapping the budget required to aggressively explore and follow-up on hot opportunities. This Term also best prevents the Clients account with the Service Provider from spiralling out of control whilst maintaining an equal amount un-remunerated labour, so as the agreement remains almost exactly half labour costs and half commission e.g. a common practice in tech startups entitled "cliff vesting". In summary the Service Providers expenses travelling the country to meet with prospects, will be covered without a second thought. And the Service Providers labour will be 50% back and forward paid, on the understanding that at least 6 universities will have had face to face sales meetings, with a clear path forward to secure business, by the 1st Aug 2022. Then upon future meetings and/or deal signings, the 50% labour unpaid by the client would be settled, according to Terms A e.g. estimate the deal value, allot a percentage commission to the Service Provider, of which 50% is released as payment. And any shortfall between the commission and the unsettled account balance is made up accordingly.

In effect the Service Provider now has expenses covered in full and labour costs covered in part, in exchange for securing a handful of solid opportunities each month. When the Service Provider materializes more opportunities and/or a closes a deal, the Client pays the Service Providers unpaid labour costs. These terms fairly balance the Service Providers and Clients exposure to risk, both in terms of cashflow and balance and profit/loss to an almost 50/50 degree according to the Service Providers calculations.
